DR. POLING TO TELL EXPERIENCE
IN FRONT TRENCH

Will Address Mass Meeting
at First Presbyterian Church Saturday.

DISTINGUISHED IN CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

Went With American Boys
From Base to Firing Line on Recent Visit.

Daniel A. Poling, LL. D., who is to address a great mass-meeting at the Presbyterian church, on the topic "With the American Troops from the Base to the Front-Line Trenches," is one of the leading young men in the United States. He is associate president of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, a speaker of rare eloquence and power, universally admired and beloved. He was a champion athlete in college, and became field-secretary of the Ohio Christian Endeavor union. During this period he was prohibition candidate for Governor of Ohio, and though the youngest candidate that ever ran for that office, he made a marvellous canvass and more than doubled any previous vote of his party.

Since becoming associate president of the Christian Endeavor Society, Dr. Poling has not lost his zeal for temperance, but is president of the great federation of temperance organizations, which has done so much during recent years to push prohibition throughout the nation. He was secretary of the Flying Squadron, which helped to bring several States into prohibition column and was head of one of the sections of the squadron, speaking in all parts of the country many times a day for several months. His work in the Intercollegiate Prohibition Association has also been conspicuously successful.

In January Dr. Poling, by special invitation, went to England to speak on behalf of war prohibition there. He held meetings in many of the leading cities of England and Scotland, and though the prohibition cause is far from popular in the United Kingdom, and former speakers of great prominence had received scanty attention, and some had been mobbed, Dr. Poling won many oratorical triumphs and never failed to hold his audiences enthralled.

After this speaking tour he went to France, where he donned the Y. M. C. A. uniform, and spent several weeks living with men in the training camps of the American soldiers and the trenches at the front. While there he had some thrilling experiences. He passed through the ordeal of the first gas attack made on the American lines, and more than once was under fire. He was working at one time in a Y. M. C. A. hut close to the German lines, and aided some stretcher-bearers to bring in a wounded German. It was necessary for them to carry this German across an open space toward battalion headquarters a little way back. The enemy at once opened a fierce shell fire on the party of stretch-bearers, and before they fell to the ground and waited. When the fire did not cease, they were compelled to run to headquarters, and got through without much injury, through Dr. Poling was slightly wounded in one hand.

One of the soldiers, however, was blown about five feet by an exploding shell. A party was sent back after the German prisoner, accompanied by the Y. M. C. A. secretary to show where he was. This party also was shelled, but got back safely, carrying the German on a stretcher.

This is only a sample of the many thrilling stories that Dr. Poling will tell in his forthcoming address in this place. Everywhere he went, both in the United Kingdom and on the Continent, he met hundreds of Christian Endeavorers. He found that almost every other Y. M. C. A. worker is an Endeavorer, and in the ranks they are fighting in increasing numbers. He greeted them everywhere, and gave them a word of cheer, and inspiration.

Dr. Poling's audiences on his present tour throughout the United States are limited only by size of the auditorium, and are intensely interested in what he has to say, not only about the conditions under which our American boys are living in the training camps and in the trenches. Regarding the latter he has many heartening experiences to relate, and his testimony is most encouraging to all American patriots. "We have literally worked miracles, and our men are physically fit and morally sound" is his testimony concerning our troops.

Dublin, May 24.—The anti-conscription fund which in less than a month has grown to nearly $1,000,000, bids fair to become one of the most important factors in the development of the internal political situation. It is the largest fund ever raised in Ireland for a political purpose and being in control of the Mansion house conference, that body finds itself in a position of greater financial power than any political organization in Ireland today.

Thus, the conference, unless managed scrupulously, would be able to influence tremendously the action of any nationalist political organization. This opens many dangerous possibilities to which the moderate leaders in Dublin have devoted anxious attention during the last 48 hours.

Purchase of war supplies in Russia is under consideration at Washington to prevent them from falling into the hands of the Germans.

The President signed the session bill giving the government wide powers to punish disloyal acts and utterances.

FISTIC HISTORY

Today is the fifty-second anniversary of what was perhaps the worst "blowout" ever pulled off in the ring's history—a battle for the heavyweight championship.

It was on May 24, 1866, that Jim Mace and Joe Goss faced each other for the championship belt and $1,000 a side. Owing to fear of interference from the authorities, none of the sports who boarded the train in London on the morning of the fight knew where they were going, except Nat Langham and Jack Lawley, who made the arrangements.

When the men faced each other in the ring they fenced and sparred for fifteen or twenty minutes. Mace at last landed a light blow on the cheek, a blow which was countered by Joe to a blow on Mace's nose. Those were the only two blows struck in a contest which lasted over an hour. Neither man would start trouble, and at length, despite the jeering of the angry sports, and the commands of the referee, Mace and Goss stood still, folded their arms and glared at each other.

The first round of this "great championship battle" was never finished, and the referee had to call it a "draw." Mace had previously defeated Goss, and in a third bout repeated the trick. Joe Goss afterward came to America and held the American heavyweight title from 1875 to 1880, when he was defeated in a bloody eighty-seven round battle by Paddy Ryan. Mace also toured America and defeated the best of the heavyweights on this side of the Atlantic.

Solly Smith knocked out Dal Hawkins in the thirteenth round at San Francisco on May 24, 1912, just twenty-six years ago tonight. This was the first important bout of Smith, afterward featherweight champion, although he had previously engaged in a few contests in Los Angeles, his native city. Hawkins, who now runs a road-house and training camp for boxers near New York, was considered a hard nut to crack, and Smith's victory gave him a reputation. A little later the Los Angeles boy fought a fifty-six round draw with George Siddons, the "Iron Man." Smith first fought George Dixon at Coney Island in 1892, and lost in seven rounds. In 1894, Smith fought draws with Kid Lavigne, Frank Erne and Young Griffo. Smith met Dixon again in 1897 at San Francisco and won in twenty rounds. They fought at 120 pounds, and the "Chocolate Drop" continued to claim the title, alleging that the weight should have been 118 pounds, but Smith was generally recognized as featherweight champion until he lost to Dave Sullivan the following year. In this bout with Sullivan, Solly broke his arm, and soon had to quit the game.

EXPECT RECORD
CROWD MONDAY

Array of Talent at Casino
Should Bring Out Fans
In Big Numbers

Battling Levinsky, the light heavyweight champion, who meets Bartley Madden at the Casino Monday night in the star bout of 15 rounds on the Lakewood card, left on the 12:45 o'clock train this noon for New York where he will be on the card of star boxers that have been engaged to take part in the benefit for the Red Cross fund tonight at Madison Square Garden.

Levinsky stated before he left that he expects to give Madden an artistic trimming when they meet in the Casino ring next Monday night, and wants all his friends to be on hand to see him in action in a local ring for the first time in two years.

Matchmaker Ralph Brown of the Lakewood club said today that the advance sale of tickets for the show is unusually large and he expects a record crowd to be present. Considerable interest has been manifested in the semi-windup between Red Allen of this city and Charley Bergen of New Haven. Allen expects to put Bergen away in less than 10 rounds as he figures the Elm City lad is out of his class as far as punching is concerned.

OBSERVATION OF ITALY'S ENTRY INTO WAR TODAY

New York, May 24.—Italy's entrance to the war three years ago was observed in New York today with a series of gala occasions, enthusiastic mass meetings and a lavish display of the entwined American and Italian national colors from thousands of buildings. The celebration will culminate tonight with a concert and patriotic meeting at the Metropolitan Opera House, at which the principal speakers will be the Italian ambassador, Count Masochi di Collere, Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, and Charles E. Hughes, president of the Italy-American society. Caruso, Martinelli, Amato, DeLuca and other operatic stars will sing.

Drunken Chauffeur
Is Heavily Fined

Francis Bliss, Jr., of New Haven, arrested last night for driving an automobile recklessly while under the influence of liquor was fined $75 and costs today when arraigned before Judge Wilder in the City Court.

According to Patrolman Thomas Maloney, Bliss was zigzagging a wild course while at the wheel of his powerful car down Stratford avenue until he came to Kosuth street, where he was finally arrested.

Hamilton Hold of New York, who will represent the United States at the celebration of Italy Day in Italy has arrived in Rome.

ANTIS FUND IN

Dublin, May 24.—The anti-conscription fund which in less than a month has grown to nearly $1,000,000, bids fair to become one of the most important factors in the development of the internal political situation. COL. TANCREDI
TO ADDRESS WAR
RALLY TONIGHT

Col. Alfonso Tancredi, hero of many battles, who will be one of the speakers at the war rally at the armory tonight in recognition of Italy's entry into the war three years ago, will arrive in Bridgeport on the 6:37 train tonight. He will meet at the railroad station by a committee consisting of Justice George W. Wheeler of the War Bureau, Walter B. Lashar of the Red Cross, City Clerk J. A. H. Robinson, Rev. Carlo Cerreta, Jonathan Godfrey, Mrs. H. W. Fleck and Mrs. J. B. Conkling.

Col. Tancredi will be escorted to the armory by natives of Italy living in Bridgeport who will turn out in parade, starting at Washington park at 6:15 and proceeding to the railroad station over various East Side streets to martial music by several bands. In the parade besides the numerous Italian societies will be women members of the Italian Red Cross.

Besides Col. Tancredi, Rev. Archibald F. Campbell, pastor of the Washington Park M. E. church, who is in service with the shipping board, will speak.

Col. Tancredi's record is one of which every Italian speaking citizen is proud. His battles in Africa, at Britania and Libya, are achievements which they delight to recount. They remember that he became commander of the colony of Cirene after a terrific battle. While he was born in Naples, he comes of an old Piedmont family of distinguished lineage. He is the possessor of many medals of honor for bravery and extraordinary success of arms, including the Cross of Cavalier of the Military Order of Savona, one of the highest military honors in Italy. He carries wounds received in battle.

The Woman's Liberty Chorus will sing and during the evening Miss Catherine Kane will dance the Highland Fling in Scottish costume.

Gustav Carlson, one of the leading lawyers of Middletown, will address a patriotic meeting at the Swedish Congregational church at Laurel avenue and Grove street, of which the Rev. A. P. Engstrom is pastor, at 7:30 o'clock next Sunday night. Mr. Carlson has spoken previously at Bridgeport and will receive a warm welcome from his admirers.
